

Women in Medicine: Challenges and Opportunities at an Academic Medical Center in Pakistan

Dr. Sarah Nadeem is an Assistant Professor of Endocrinology, Medicine at the Aga Khan University Hospital and an active member of the Stritch School of Medicine Curriculum Review Committee and established the Women in Medicine Group. She is an active member of Women in Endocrinology committee of the Endocrine Society, member of AACE, Endocrine Society and the Pakistan Endocrine Society. Her research interests include Diabetes technology and bone health in cancer patients. She likes to write, everything from fiction to op-eds; having published her opinion regarding healthcare in the US in the Chicago Tribune.

Dr. Hunaina Shahab is the Chief Resident of Adult Cardiology, Medicine at the Aga Khan University Hospital, Pakistan. She has been a member of the writing committee of the Pakistan Hypertension League Guidelines released in 2018 and is an active member of the British and Irish Hypertension Society. Her interests include learning to speak Spanish and mentoring students and residents for their career.

June 12

Dr. Sarah Nadeem

Dr. Humaina Shahab

Time

12:00pm - 1:00pm

Location

4610 X Street
Sacramento, CA 95817
Education Building 2222